LOCAL BRIEFS.

Yesterday was decidedly hot—a real summer day.

There are in the United States 1,585,000 illiterate male adults, of whom 743,000 are whites.

Our Market is now plentifully supplied, with Irish potatoes, garden peas, strawberries, cherries and other vegetables and fruits of the season.

A meeting of Raleigh Lodge, No. 65, I. O. O. F., to-night for work in the 1st degree. A full and prompt attendance is earnestly desired.

As previously announced the annual meeting of the Methodist Sunday School Society, of Edenton Street Church, will be held at the church this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The number of newspapers taken and read in different localities will be found a valuable measure of their growth in intelligence. So says John Elton, United States Commissioner of Education.

Mr. R. H. Whitaker, editor of the Friend of Temperance, was in Smithfield last Friday night, where he made a temperance speech and organized a Council of Friends of Temperance.

The citizens of Auburn, Wake county, in view of the large crops of cotton which they expect to realize, are speaking of building a warehouse at Auburn Station, 8 miles east of Raleigh, on the N. C. R.

J. G. Bromell, Esq., an old Raleigh Typographer, proposes opening in this city the coming week a news depot, where all the leading journals and periodicals of the day may be had. We wish him success.

We regret to learn that few a days ago a little son of Eugene Grisom, Superintendent of the Insane Asylum, broke his thigh by a severe fall. We have not heard the particulars of the accident.

Texas, too, wants her canal, and a bill has been introduced into the Senate for the construction of one from the eastern boundary of the State on Sabine Lake to the western boundary on the Rio Grande.

The fifty-seventh annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of this State convenes in Fayetteville on Wednesday next. The news will be represented, and furnish its readers with full reports of the proceedings of each day.

We understand that the Rev. Mr. Trimmer has temporary charge of the interests of Person Street Methodist Church of this city, and is making active efforts to build up that congregation. His success thus far is gratifying to the friends of the church.

The annual convocation of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of this State, will be held at the city of Wilmington, commencing 2d of June. John Nichols of this city, who is at present Grand High Priest, and three or four members of Raleigh Chapter No 10, expect to attend.

Wilmington, we are glad to learn, is rapidly regaining her commerce. A gentleman, who was there a few weeks ago, reports that there were seventeen three-masted vessels, all from foreign countries, in the port—when the Central North Carolina Railroad is finished we expect still greater improvement.

Capt. W. C. Parker, of this city, has become the general agent for the American Lightning Rod Company, and will serve all parties desirous of this protection to their property. Capt. Parker is a "native" and to the manor born, a good business man and will attend faithfully to all orders entrusted to his care. We commend Capt. Parker and his enterprise.

PERSONAL.—Dr. W. A. B. Norcom, of Edenton, is confined to his room by sickness, at the Yarborough House. Last evening he was much improved, and it is to be hoped he will be out in a few days. Dr. Sayers, of New York, is remaining over with him.

PAINFUL.—We are pained to learn that Eugene, the youngest son of Dr. Eugene H. Grisom, of the Lunatic Asylum, fell to the floor Friday and broke his leg. Drs. McKee and Fuller were called and set the leg of the little sufferer, who is now doing well. Eugene is about seven years old.

LAW CARD.—The Hon. Sion H. Rogers, Attorney at Law, offers his services to the public. See his card elsewhere.

In 1869-70 there were 2047 homes reported in the United States.

STATE MEDICAL CONVENTION.

IN SESSION AT STATESVILLE.

THIRD DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

[BY OUR OWN REPORTER.]

STATESVILLE, May 22nd, 1873.

The President called the Convention to order at 9 o'clock.

Doctor Patterson from the Committee on Credentials, submitted a report, which recommends for membership Doctors Walker G. McLender, Anson county; J. W. Vick, Selma, Johnston county; A. Allison, Irredell county; Albert G. Carr, Wake county; William G. Johnson, Davie county; Jacob M. Hadley, Lenoir county; John B. Gathier, Rowan county; Doctor P. Livingston Murphy, New Hanover county; and J. E. Green, Warren county. Doctor J. M. Hadley was also received as a regularly appointed delegate of the Lenoir County Medical Society.

The President announced that in accordance with a resolution adopted, he would appoint Doctors T. L. Wood, G. Thomas and W. L. Love, of New Hanover county, a Committee on Obituaries, and designate Wilmington as the headquarters of said Committee.

Doctor Peter E. Hines, Chairman of the Committee on Nominations, submitted the following report:

President—Dr. W. A. B. Norcom, of Edenton.

Vice Presidents—1st, Dr. J. B. Jones, Charlotte, N. C.; 2d, Dr. R. F. Lewis, Lumberton; 3d, Dr. C. G. Cox, Richlands; 4th, Dr. L. Knight, Tarboro.

Orator—Dr. A. B. Pierce, Halifax.

Treasurer—Dr. H. J. Bahson, Salem.

Secretary—Dr. Jas. McKee, Raleigh.

Delegates to American Medical Association—Dr. T. B. J. Jerman, Warren; W. Lane, Wilmington; H. Kelly, Statesville; C. J. O'Hagan, Greenville; F. M. Rountree, Snow Hill.

Hill—Dr. R. L. Payne, Lexington; J. F. Shaffner, Salem; H. O. Wyatt, Kinston; Dr. N. Patterson, —; G. G. Smith, Concord.

Committee on Publication—Dr. E. B. Haywood, P. E. Hines, James McKee.

Dr. Shaffner introduced a resolution authorizing the Secretary to give credit on his books to members who will voluntarily advance ten dollars to assist in paying out the accrued debt of the Society. Adopted.

Dr. Bahson, as Chairman of the Committee on Anesthesia, (plain English—chloroform and ether, read a lengthy report, which was on motion referred to the Committee on Publication.

Dr. Kelly read an invitation to the Society from Messrs. Wallace Brothers & Shipments to visit their Ilberian, located in the town. On motion, the invitation was accepted.

The hour having arrived for the installation of officers, Drs. Summerell and Hines were requested to conduct the new President to the Chair.

Dr. Norcom, upon assuming the position of presiding officer, returned his thanks, etc., to the Society for the honor conferred.

Dr. Whitehead, in retiring from the Chair, delivered one of the most beautiful addresses, not only of the session, but that we ever listened to. The subject was the advancement of medical societies, and the duties of the profession in keeping pace therewith, etc., etc.

He deprecated, the idea of members of the profession dabbling in politics, as it lowered the standard of the profession.

It's me!—Passing a neat little residence the other evening, we happened to see a man waiting at the door for admittance. At the instant a green blind just opened a little way, and by the gas light we caught a glimpse of a pair of brilliant eyes, and a flutter of something white, and a bird-toned voice said: "Who's there?"

"It's me," was the brief response.

The eyes and the brief flutter disappeared from the window like the stars in a cloud, and we fancied, as we passed on, we could hear the patterning of two little feet up the stairs, winged with welcome.

It was a trifle; it all happened in an instant, but it haunted us for an hour.

It's me! Amid the jar of the city, those words fell upon the quick ear afloat, and met a glad response.

It's me! And who was "me"? The pride of a heart's love, no doubt; the tree a vine was clinging to; the "defender of the faithful," in the best sense in the world.

It's me! Many are who would give half their hearts, and more than half the hopes in them, for one such recognition in this wide, wide world.

In the directory, at the post office, he was known as A. B. C., Esq., but on that threshold, and within those walls it's me, and nothing more; and what more is there one would love to be?

Few of all the hearts that beat so wildly, warmly, sadly, slowly, can recognize a true soul, amid the din and darkness of the world in that simple "it's me." As if he had said:

"Now I am nothing to all the world. For I'm all the world to thee."

A HANDSOME AND DESERVED COMPLIMENT.—The Roanoke News, in its last issue, pays to our distinguished fellow-townsmen, Gen. W. R. Cox, the following handsome and deserved compliment, which we take pleasure in reproducing in our columns to-day:

"As public journalists, we should be unjust to the sentiment of the people with whom we live if we failed to reflect, in our columns, some little of the esteem in which this faithful officer is held. Called to a most trying position, in a time of great difficulty, Gen. Cox has proved himself more than equal to the delicate task. It was a most fortunate circumstance for our people that such a man was found in such an emergency. No man who has attended our Courts for the last five years but has been impressed with the fairness, intelligence and high sense of public duty invariably manifested by this good officer. No one can well estimate his influence in maintaining the good order of society and promoting the harmony of all the people. We have been constantly struck with the exact impartiality which he has exercised towards both parties and all colors. While he has maintained the full efficiency of his office and made the law a terror to evil doers, all good men here admire his singular generosity and magnanimous charity towards the world.

These remarks are suggested to us by the universal regret expressed this week by all the citizens of Northampton at the fact that Gen. Cox is no longer to attend to that court, the county of Northampton having been transferred to the First Circuit.

We confess to little weakness for the brave men who held out to Appomattox, but we fully represent public opinion when we say that Gen. Cox's bearing and patriotism in those dark days have not surpassed his faithful, able and wise discharge of duty as Senator of this District.

Long may this pure, gallant and gifted son of our State continue to honor, and be honored by North Carolina."

TRINITY COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.—We publish the following at the request of the Chief Marshal:

All persons visiting the commencement of Trinity College, the 11th and 12th of June next, can obtain half rate tickets over the N. C. R. R. to High Point, from which place they will be conveyed by stages to Trinity, a distance of four miles.

It will afford me pleasure to secure accommodations beforehand for any such desiring it. The literary address will be delivered by James Barron Hope, Esq., Norfolk, Va., and the sermon preached before the graduating class by Rev. F. M. Kennedy, D. D., of Atlanta, Ga. Every one is cordially invited to attend.

LEE S. OVERMAN, Chief Marshal.

Advocate and Charlotte Democrat will please copy.

LIME.—Our middle section needs cheap lime to bring it into a high state of cultivation. Grasses, clover and compost are good things, but without lime they cannot be made to perfection, and not a temporary relief to our exhausted lands. Give us lime at a moderate cost, and no part of Pennsylvania will be more productive than the oak and hickory land of Middle North Carolina.

In the neighborhood of Newbern there are vast deposits of conglomerated shells which yield the best quality of lime. These beds are on navigable streams and in the midst of forests of timber. But two things are needed to develop them and deliver them to all of our farms—enterprise to quarry and introduce them and a cheap system of freights from Newbern on the railroads. Who will attend to this, and while reaping a harvest of riches, add to the wealth of the State.

The 24th day of June next, observed by the Masonic fraternity as the anniversary of St. John the Baptist, will be celebrated by the Masons in different sections of this State. The observances of the day at Oxford will, it is anticipated, be of more than usual interest, as it will be in connection with exercises at the Orphan Asylum. A general invitation has been extended by the Masons at Oxford, so we learn, to the fraternity in the State, to visit Oxford on that day. Several distinguished members of the Order have been invited to deliver addresses, some of whom have accepted, among them Rev. Dr. Craven, of Trinity College, and Robt. B. Vance, Past Grand Master. Whether or not the day will be celebrated in this city, we have not yet been informed.

MESSRS. BAKER, NEAL & SHEPARD.—By reference to the card in another column, it will be seen that Mr. Wm. B. Shepard, late of Edenton, N. C., has become associated with the firm of Jno. B. Neal & Co., Cotton Factors and General Commission Merchants, of Norfolk, Va. This is one of the most reliable houses in Virginia, and we are pleased to know they already are doing a large business with North Carolina.

UNMAILABLE LETTERS.—The following is the list of letters held in the post-office in this city for lack of proper postage:

P.—Since—In the above named letter, the thanks of the Society during his administration of the hospital, and accepted by the Society during the Session of the Convention, but extra copies of the address were not within the grasp of the healer's art. Dr. Foote's report was received with marked attention, and quite a number of the Society consulted him immediately on the modus operandi of his treatment, preparatory to supplying themselves with the all powerful agent. The Dr. also threw a few sharp at the systems of bleeding, letting and purgatives so indiscriminately practiced by some physicians.

This led to a general discussion on the subject which was participated in by Dr. H. D. Appold, Lucky, Summerell, Payne, Pierce and others.

P.—Since—In the above named letter, the thanks of the Society during his administration of the hospital, and accepted by the Society during the Session of the Convention. Adopted.

Dr. Satchwell desired to remind the Committee of Censors of the importance of the duties of their position, &c.

The President announced that the next meeting of the Society would be held in Charlotte, commencing at 10 o'clock, A. M., on the 3d Tuesday of May, 1874.

Adjourned.

PERSONAL.—Dr. W. A. B. Norcom, of Edenton, is confined to his room by sickness, at the Yarborough House. Last evening he was much improved, and it is to be hoped he will be out in a few days. Dr. Sayers, of New York, is remaining over with him.

WAR HISTORY OF NORTH CAROLINA.

The Newbern Journal of Commerce, edited by that gallant Confederate soldier and accomplished writer, Colonel S. D. Pool, in its issue of the seventeenth of May, promises to add to the interest of its columns by publishing authentic accounts of all the battles, sieges and skirmishes fought on North Carolina soil during the late war.

The following is the editorial in the Journal making the announcement:

"To us there are few things dearer than North Carolina, and the memory of the gallant men who gave lustre to her name, and who largely increased her fame in the late war between the States. To preserve memorials of them, and to place some of their heroic deeds before the public shall be our aim during the volume of the Journal of Commerce we have this day begun. To this end we shall publish well written, authentic accounts of every battle or skirmish which was fought on the soil or on the waters of the State from the beginning to the close of the war. These pen and ink sketches will be prepared by gentlemen of character and ability who were present and participated in the scenes which they will describe. Though they will not be official accounts of the battles, they will be in all respects, truthful and reliable. Anecdotes of officers and men, special and noticeable acts of gallantry, descriptions of camp life, and of battle fields, of successful and unsuccessful expeditions, of daring scouts, and instances of heroism under the most trying ordeals will all form subject matter discussed by those as capable of wielding pens as they proved themselves to be of marshalling hosts, charging an enemy's lines, leading forlorn hopes, governing individuals and States, and of making the camp fire and the bivouac scenes of joyous reunions after the toilsome march, advancing or retreating. We are now in correspondence with reference to this with some who have already responded favorably and promised to write the articles, we have asked them to write—others will do likewise."

Commencing with a brief sketch of the events which immediately preceded the 20th of May 1861, our contemplated design brings us speedily to the "Fall of Hatteras," an account of which from a gentleman of high standing and character who was captured there, we hope to lay before our readers early in June.

Though we shall be compelled in carrying out our designs to tell of Confederate disasters and defeats, it will be seen that those disasters and defeats resulted from no want of heroism on the part of those who bore the brunt of battle; but from inadequate means and from the overwhelming force brought to bear against them."

It is with real pleasure we chronicle the above announcement, because we believe Col. Pool is competent for the task, which is a delicate and difficult one, and requires judgment, tact and impartiality.

Col. Pool was himself a prominent actor in many of the scenes he proposes to describe. He was the commander of the Tenth North Carolina Regiment of State Troop, our Artillery Regiment, and some of his companies participated in every battle fought on North Carolina soil. A brave and distinguished officer himself, he shared with our troops the dangers and privations, as well as the honors and victories of the four years heroic struggle for independence.

We learn from Col. Pool, who is now in this City, that he will commence the publication of these sketches in his paper on the seventh of June, and will continue them from week to week, until a full and complete history of each battle on our soil is given. He has already some interesting reports relating to the more important fights, and has the promise from able and competent pens of other contributions of a similar character. Several of our most distinguished officers have answered his letters of inquiry, and will either write full accounts of the battles in which their commands were engaged, or place at Col. Pool's disposal all the data and memoranda in their possession, to enable him to carry out his design. His history will be as accurate and complete as possible, and will be in the main founded upon official records and the statements of eye-witnesses and participants.

When the whole is finished, the series will be published in book-form, and it is expected that the volume will contain six or eight hundred pages. This will depend, however, upon the assistance the author may receive from the gentlemen with whom he is in correspondence.

Col. Pool is a graceful, vigorous and polished writer, and we trust he may receive sufficient encouragement in this labor of love and patriotism to enable him to extend the sphere of his operations and follow the fortunes of the North Carolina soldiers in the armies of Northern Virginia and of the West.

We believe that Col. Pool's sketches will be the most valuable acquisition to the war history of the State, which has been written or is now contemplated, and we appeal to all North Carolinians to aid him in the praiseworthy and important enterprise.

A record of the deeds, valor and heroism of the North Carolina soldiers must be written by a North Carolinian. This is evident from the so-called histories that have thus far appeared—in which there seems to be a studied effort to conceal the exploits of the officers and privates from this State. The McCabes and Pollards are not the writers upon whom we can rely for historical justice. Their romantic pages are quite interesting reading matter, but it would be a difficult matter to tell, after reading them, on which side of the struggle North Carolina fought in the war.

Certainly no one would imagine from a perusal of the works thus far published that in some of Lee's most splendid victories North Carolina soldiers enacted a noble and conspicuous part.

WHY NORTH CAROLINA WINES DO NOT SELL ABROAD.

A correspondent of the State Agricultural Journal, writing from New York, under date of May 19th, gives some practical reasons why our North Carolina wines do not command a good price in the markets outside the State.

He says he has tried to sell North Carolina Scuppernong wine in that City, and has not been offered it for more than fifty cents per gallon. The reason he assigns is that no two barrels are alike, and until a formula is adopted and adhered to, as to make the wine uniform, it will be impossible to give it any standing in the market. He says the foreign wines may be readily distinguished. Sherry, Claret and Madeira, for instance, no matter what may be their quality, can be recognized instantly. He thinks that these foreign wines will continue to be used until the wine makers in the South adopt a certain formula for each kind of the wine made from our different species of grapes.

The State Journal recommends a Wine-growers Convention to remedy the evil complained by the correspondent, to be held in this State in June or July, for a discussion of the matter and an agreement on a formula for each variety of grape.

We believe in the power of associated effort, and think a Convention of the character suggested by the Journal will redound to the interest of our North Carolina wine-makers. The Convention should be held sometime during the coming Summer in this City.

THE MODOCS SURRENDERING JACK'S ESCAPE.

The intelligence conveyed in our dispatches yesterday, that some of the Modocs have surrendered, seems to be confirmed to-day. It may turn out, however, that only the squaws have fallen into the hands of the troops. No mention is made of any warriors who have surrendered.

At any rate, Jack is not reported captured or harmed. If he has escaped, it is likely he may be able to muster reinforcements from among other tribes, who have placed themselves on a war-footing on our Western frontier.

DURELL TO RESIGN.

The dispatches to day inform us that Durell, the Federal Judge in Louisiana, whose outrageous conduct has been the chief cause of all the troubles in that State, has expressed his purpose to resign.

It is a great pity he did not come to this conclusion before the November election.

Durell's official career has been a stigma on the judicial ermine, and has called down upon his head the severest denunciation of men of all parties.

Southern "Carpet-Baggers."

Did it ever occur to anybody that the North might be overrun with southern carpet-baggers? Not less than seven or eight ex-Confederate officers are now said to be permanent residents of New York city; and the beauty of it is, nobody thinks of taunting them with being "rebels," much less "carpet-baggers." Will any of our contemporaries consent to hang a moral on this particular fact or circumstance?—State Journal.

We learn from Col. Pool, who is now in this City, that he will commence the publication of these sketches in his paper on the seventh of June, and will continue them from week to week, until a full and complete history of each battle on our soil is given. He has already some interesting reports relating to the more important fights, and has the promise from able and competent pens of other contributions of a similar character. Several of our most distinguished officers have answered his letters of inquiry, and will either write full accounts of the battles in which their commands were engaged, or place at Col. Pool's disposal all the data and memoranda in their possession, to enable him to carry out his design. His history will be as accurate and complete as possible, and will be in the main founded upon official records and the statements of eye-witnesses and participants.

When the whole is finished, the series will be published in book-form, and it is expected that the volume will contain six or eight hundred pages. This will depend, however, upon the assistance the author may receive from the gentlemen with whom he is in correspondence.

Col. Pool is a graceful, vigorous and polished writer, and we trust he may receive sufficient encouragement in this labor of love and patriotism to enable him to extend the sphere of his operations and follow the fortunes of the North Carolina soldiers in the armies of Northern Virginia and of the West.

We believe that Col. Pool's sketches will be the most valuable acquisition to the war history of the State, which has been written or is now contemplated, and we appeal to all North Carolinians to aid him in the praiseworthy and important enterprise.

Judge Pierpont having declined the mission to Russia, the President has offered the appointment to ex-Governor Jewell, of Connecticut. We need a jewel in the crown of American diplomacy, but we are not quite sure that this Connecticut emerald is fit for the place.—Courier-Journal.

A TOUCHING INCIDENT.—A short time since, in this city, says the Covington, Ky., Journal, a brilliant and much admired lady, who had been suffering for some time with a trouble of the eye, was led to fear a speedy change for the worse, and immediately consulted her physician. An examination discovered a sudden and fatal failing in the optic nerve, and the information was imparted as gently as possible, that the patient could not retain her sight more than a few days at most, and was liable to be totally deprived of it at any moment. The afflicted mother returned to her room, quietly made such arrangements as would enable her to one about to commence so dark a journey of life, and then had her two children attired in their brightest and sweetest costumes brought before her; and so, with their little faces lifted to her, and tears gathering for some great misfortune that they hardly realized, the light faded out of the mother's eyes, leaving an ineffaceable picture of these dearest to her on earth—a memory of bright faces that will console her in many a dark hour.

THE WONDERS OF ASSYRIA.—George Smith, of London, in his digging into the ancient site of the once great city of Nineveh, has unearthed the recently missing fragments of the old Assyrian record of the Deluge; and, better still, he has found a library in stone of an Assyrian king. Thus, after the lapse of thousands of years, the secrets of the mighty nations and peoples of the past are coming to light—as, for instance, in the late discoveries in Jerusalem and Cyprus, and in the buried ruins of the Temple of Diana and ancient Troy, and now in these Assyrian treasures. Best of all, that solid old book the Bible comes out of all these tests like gold from the crucible.

The Pall Mall Gazette courteously tells Hon. Caleb Cushing's book on the Alabama claims "an extraordinary flood of blackguardism."

SELECTED POETRY REMEMBER.

Beyond all beauty is the unknown grace;
Above all bliss a higher; and above
The loveliest is a more loving love.
That bows not the still anguish of its face,
Than death there is a deathlier. Brief space—
Behind despair the blacer shadowsrove,
Beneath all life a deeper life doth move,
So, friend of mine, when empty is my place—
For me no more grass grows, dead leaves are strewed—
And now I ceased my singing, sad or cheery,
Sweet friends whom I do thank for every word—
Or help—praise or blame—remember clearly
I asked that 'mid your tears this might be heard:
"For we he never did we love him dearly."

Barnum's New Enterprise.

LONDON AND PARIS BY NIGHT AND DAY

REALISTIC PICTURES OF TRAVEL.

For some little time it has been rumored that the indefatigable Barnum was about to embark in a new enterprise, designed to surpass all his previous efforts, and add, if possible, to his fame as the crowned "prince of showmen." In order to ascertain the particulars of the new project, the writer yesterday called upon Mr. Barnum, when the following conversation ensued:

"What are the facts with regard to this new undertaking, Mr. Barnum?"

"Simply, sir, that I have taken hold of the grandest exhibition project ever attempted in this country, and one which no other man would dare attempt. I am going to import the cities of London and Paris to America, and do away entirely with the necessity of foreign travel."

"How do you propose to accomplish this astounding feat?"

"Perhaps you remember that some years ago there were exhibited in London three gigantic pictures of London by night, London by day, and the City of Paris, in a building called the Colisee, of immense size, and prepared expressly for their reception, at a cost of $1,240,000. This building and the property upon which it was situated became so valuable that it was finally sold for hotel purposes, and at that time these marvelous pictures were purchased by a party of English capitalists (prominent among whom was Mr. Kendall, the railroad magnate), who appreciated their value, but did not know just what to do with them, owing to the fact that there was no building in the world large enough to exhibit them properly. Now, I have completed an arrangement with these gentlemen by which these wonderful works of art will be brought to this city, and be here exhibited by me so soon as proper arrangements can be made for their reception."

"Do you contemplate putting up a building for their accommodation?"

"Yes; we have obtained a three years' lease of the property on the corner of Broadway and 35th street, on which we shall erect a corrugated iron amphitheatre 150 feet in diameter, 400 feet in circumference, and 100 feet high. Above this will rise a lofty tower, from the summit of which a magnificent bird's-eye view of the city of New York may be obtained. These pictures of London were painted by Mr. Pariss, a well-known scenic artist, and are of extraordinary dimensions, being 400 feet in length, 85 feet high, and covering a superficial area each of 40,000 square feet."

"How can a comprehensive view of such a picture be obtained?"

Very simply, from the cupola of a miniature of St. Paul's Cathedral. In the centre of the grand amphitheatre a tower will be erected, and at a height of sixty feet a commodious circular gallery will be constructed. Over this will extend the vast dome of an artificial sky, in which may be seen twinkling stars and a mimic moon, across which, from time to time, float fleecy clouds in perfect reproduction of nature's self. Why, sir, when I visited the Colisee in London years ago, and beheld this wonderful production of artistic skill, it required the fullest exercise of my reasoning power to convince myself that I was not standing on some lofty pinnacle under the open sky, gazing upon the veritable city about me. Not less than 6,000,000 persons witnessed its exhibition there, and the testimony of all these confirms the statement that it is truly marvellous."

SIX OAKS PROLIFIC COTTON SEED.

I have for sale 20 bushels of genuine

"SIX OAKS PROLIFIC" Cotton Seed,

which was well originated and improved by J. W. Jones, of Georgia, and from whom

I purchased the same at a cost of

SEVEN DOLLARS PER BUSHEL.

It is a distinct variety, in every respect far superior to the satisfaction of the Court that James Morrison, Morrison

and others, were necessary parties to this action and that they reside beyond the limits of this State, and cannot be served with process.
